Streets aren't fixed because ...

Nobody's at work

By Mike Myers
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — On-the-job injuries cost the Street Department 527 lost man-hours in July — roughly the equivalent of half the 33 workers missing a minimum of a week of work.

Street Superintendent Mac Warfield said the lost time isn't unusual. "It's a real problem and not a new one."

Warfield said he can't remember the last time all 33 employees showed up for work on the same day.

The 527 on-the-job injury lost hours in July, combined with 584 hours of vacation, 104 hours of unauthorized absence and 79 hours of sick leave, meant Warfield never had a day with less than six men off.

On a typical day during the month, there were eight men out. And he often faced working with 10 of the 33 unavailable.

During the same month, the Street Department spent 80 man-hours on street repair, 200 hours on blacktopping, 120 hours on sewer repair, 220 hours on lift stations, 220 hours of sidewalk repair and 306 hours on curb repair. Other activities took up about the same amount of time.

Fourth Ward Alderman Dan Partney said the statistics are unbelievable. "In 1988, we had rifle companies in Vietnam with less on-the-job injuries. It's no wonder the streets are in bad shape — there is nobody to work on them."

Partney said he wants to know whether other departments have the same kind of problem. At his request, the City Council passed a resolution at its last meeting to have all department heads list sick leave, on-the-job injuries and vacations on their monthly reports.

Mayor Von Dee Cruse said he couldn't answer for specific departments, but said the city as a whole "has a real problem."

"Based on workman's comp figures, insurance and things like that, it is real bad compared to other municipalities insured with us," Cruse said.

Cruse said the city is in an insurance pool with other cities in the Illinois Municipal League.

"I don't think it's all departments, but the city, overall, has a problem."

With 510½ days lost to sick leave, on-the-job injuries and unauthorized absences from Jan. 1 through the end of July, 1989 would appear to be within striking distance of the 1987 record of 771½ days lost — about 23 days an employee.

Street Department records obtained by the Press-Record/Journal show that all categories of absence for 1981 totaled 419.5 days; for 1982, 230.5 days; for 1983, 244.5 days; for 1984, 298.5 days; for 1985, 473.5 days; for 1986, 492.5 days; for 1987, 771.5 days; and for 1988, 704 days off.

In 1988, records show, one employee had 129 lost days, another 125.5 lost days and a third had 89 lost days.

In 1987, the same employees had 130, 63 and 44 lost days, respectively.

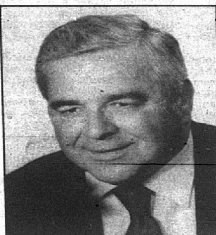

Through July of this year, their totals are 127, 5, and 18.5 lost days.

In 1988, three employees had no lost days, eight more less than 5 and six others less than 10 days. During the same year, nine men had more than 20 lost days.

In 1988, seven men had more than 20 lost days, in 1986 five, and in 1987 nine. Already in 1989, there are four employees above the 20-day mark in lost days.

Warfield said he isn't sure about the amount of vacation each employee is authorized, but each gets at least a week and all that time off works makes planning "completely impossible," especially since they have two hours after the start of the work day to call in sick.

"I don't know exactly what the answer is, but I know there's got to be one," Warfield said. "I just don't think the city knows what I have to put up with."

Crowd fears city might raze homes

By Meg Tebo

GRANITE CITY — An overflow crowd gathered in the City Council chambers Tuesday night to express concerns over how their property will be affected by proposed expansion of the downtown area's Tax Increment Financing district.

More than 100 residents who live in the area of expansion attended to ask questions and, in most instances, express disapproval of the plan.

Few concrete answers were given, but most were told that their homes are not in danger of being torn down any time soon. Neighborhoods that would be affected by the expansion are a section immediately south of downtown and an area extending to 23rd and Monroe streets. Currently the district basically includes the area surrounded by Edison, Niedringhaus, Madison and 18th streets.

City Economic Development Director Alan Orthals presented the proposal, which calls for expansion of the current TIF district of about 110 acres to about 223 acres and surrounding the downtown area. TIFs are established to entice business to build through tax abatements. Normally generated tax money is channeled back to further development of the TIF district.

The only semi-definite plan for renewal within the district is the possible building of a Wal-Mart store in the area bounded by 18th and 20th streets and Edison and Madison avenues, according to Orthals.

"We're still hopeful about Wal-Mart," said Orthals. "They've told us that they'd like to build a store in downtown Granite, but they don't know exactly when they'll be ready."

Many questions were raised about designations on a map of the proposed area. The map was sent to residents by the city.

Some people questioned whether designations such as "light industrial" or "commercial" are meant to show that the city intends to buy all the homes in those areas under eminent domain authority and tear them down to allow businesses to build.

School seeks delay

GRANITE CITY — Norman Owca, director of finance for Granite City School District 9, attended Tuesday's hearing on the proposed Tax Increment Financing district expansion to pass along the school board's request to delay the hearing.

"I think the school board is a little weary of TIF districts as a whole," Alan Orthals, economic development director for the city, said Wednesday.

"I talked to Norm at the hearing. We only sent one copy of the plan to the schools, to Jolene Terrell, the president, and she evidently didn't make copies for the rest of the board. So we agreed to make them copies and send them out."

"The way I take it, we had no official word one way or the other from the schools. We couldn't very well postpone it, anyway. What were we going to do, tell all the people who

(See DELAY, Page 8A)

Orthals tried to dispel fears. "That map is just a real general look into the future. This plan has another 20 years to go."

"That map doesn't have specific designations for plans. It's just what we expect to happen in those areas over the next 20 years. We just don't see that area as having a long-term future as a residential section."

Several people also expressed concern that their houses would

Injunction issued over road

By Andy Siering

GRANITE CITY — A temporary restraining order keeping commercial traffic off a street in Chouteau Township adjacent to a newly annexed part of the city has been issued by Circuit Judge Paul Riley.

Residents of Cote Brillante, a one-block street between St. Thomas Road and Gordon Geil's RV Sales, hired attorney Mark Spengler of the Pratt & Callis law firm in Granite City to keep Geil and his employees and customers from using their street as access to his business.

Last Friday's court order bars heavy equipment from using the street and also bars the residents from blocking the street or otherwise interfering with Geil's business.

Geil moved his business two weeks ago to a 17-acre parcel of land north of West Chain of Rocks Road and east of Illinois Route 3. The business had been located on land south of West Chain of Rocks Road, where a Hardee's restaurant is being constructed.

The residents maintain that Cote Brillante is a private street and that Geil has no easement rights. The street is the only access to Geil's property.

Pontoon OKs road-repair loan

By Valerie Evenden

PONTON BEACH — Action required to reconstruct Engineer Road leading from Illinois 111, using a $100,000 Community Development low-interest loan, was taken Wednesday night at a special meeting of the Board of Trustees.

Completion of the road work will enable construction to begin on the McDonald's Restaurant planned at that location.

Trustees unanimously approved ordinances pledging sales taxes of $18,000 per year and mortgage on Outlet A, Chouteau Trace I, property owned by the village and leased to McDonald's, as collateral on the infrastructure loan.

The agreements also state Madison County Community Development has a priority lien on the village's accounts and receipts from the Illinois Department of Revenue to be paid directly to Community Development.

Mayor Glen Wilson was authorized to sign documents pertaining to the Engineer Road construction.

The village and McDonald's also agreed to execute an employment agreement with Community Development assuring equal opportunity employment. Village Attorney Keith Jensen said.

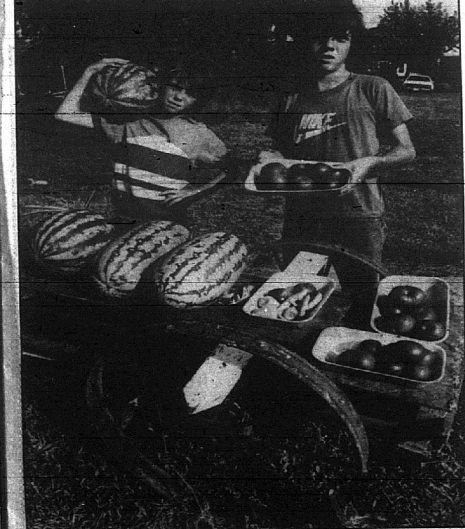

This action could relate to creating a certain number of jobs at the restaurant for low-income people, Jensen said.

Jensen also addressed concerns expressed by Trustee Marvin Ribbing, who had thought loan requirements were finalized two weeks ago.

"We think we have now anticipated everything," Jensen said.

The county agency has never before undertaken such a pledge, as made with the village, Jensen said.

GRANITE CITY — The 1989 edition of the Tri-City Trades and Labor Council's annual Labor Day parade will begin Monday at 10 a.m.

The parade marshal will be State Sen. Sam M. Vadalabene, D-Edwardsville, who has postponed back surgery to participate.

"We are very honored to have Senator Sam join us. He changed his surgery to the day after our parade just so he could be here and we are very moved by his commitment. He's a true gentleman," said Roger Hoover of the Labor Council.

The theme of this year's parade is community service. "We want to recognize the people and organizations who are putting something back into the community," Hoover said.

Participants will include the Tri-Cities Area United Way, the Shriners, varied trade and labor organizations and the Granite (See PARADE, Page 8A)

Bliss patient arraigned, ordered to county jail

By Bob Davidson
Staff writer

Michael Lewis Parrish, a mental patient who led authorities on a five-day chase that ended Sunday, was arraigned Monday afternoon in Jefferson County Circuit Court.

Associate Circuit Judge Robert J. Curran ordered that Parrish be held at the county jail on a $25,000 bond, an amount significantly higher than his bond of $10,000 before the arraignment.

Parrish, 30, has been charged with two counts of felonious restraint and one count of unlawful use of a weapon, said Prosecuting Attorney William L. Johnson. Parrish is accused of holding his wife against her will on two occasions, once at gunpoint, in June and early July.

Felonious restraint is punishable by a maximum of seven years in prison and a $5,000 fine, and the weapons charge can bring a sentence of up to five years in prison and a $5,000 fine, Johnson said.

He added, however, that Parrish could receive a sentence as lenient as supervised probation and counseling.

Parrish walked away from the supervision of Malcolm Bliss Mental Health Center workers while on a field trip to the St. Louis Art Museum on Aug. 22.

A spokesman for the St. Louis County prosecuting attorney's office said Monday nothing had been heard of plans to charge Parrish with the burglary of his mother's house. Two guns were taken in the burglary and were later found stashed behind the mobile home where Parrish and his wife lived, just outside Arnold.

Parrish was captured Sunday afternoon on the new Jefferson Barracks Bridge in south St. Louis County after negotiating a surrender with Jefferson County detectives.

Martin says magazine caters to drug culture

By Edward T. Hearn
Staff writer

WASHINGTON — U.S. Senate hopeful Lynn Martin said the war on drugs cannot be won while Illinois arms continue to help distribute a magazine she said "caters to the drug culture."

Martin, a Republican U.S. representative from suburban Rockford who is planning to challenge Democratic incumbent Paul Simon next year, lashed out at the magazine High Times, a national publication she said apparently condones illegal drug use in articles and advertisements.

She said High Times not only carried advertisements for drug paraphernalia but also listed "market quotations" for shoppers seeking to purchase marijuana, cocaine and hashish.

She told reporters in Peoria that magazine stands, convenience stores and other firms "that help sell the magazine should quit doing so in the interest of a drug-free country."

"Individuals and businesses must decide if they want to help such publications thrive," Martin said in a prepared statement.

Martin is preparing her own anti-drug legislation just as President George Bush prepares to announce his own plan after the Labor Day weekend.

High Times, a 15-year-old publication with about 250,000 readers, would have to stop running drug paraphernalia ads if legislation being offered by Martin and U.S. Rep. Charles Hayes, D-Chicago, were enacted by Congress.

"It's a serious infringement on our First Amendment rights," said High Times editor-in-chief Steve Hager.

Hager said the magazine's readership of mostly college-educated people and blue collar workers would resist Martin's effort because they want legal restrictions on marijuana relaxed.

"Every local (district attorney) in America that wants to make a name for himself holds a press conference, stands in front of 7-Eleven and says, 'I got High Times banned,'" Hager said.

The Martin-Hayes bill, among other things, would strengthen and extend existing laws regarding the sale of drug paraphernalia — which Martin said is a $3-billion-a-year industry — and give new clout to the Drug Enforcement Agency.

Martin has already introduced legislation that would reduce the number of House committees dealing with drug issues from an unwieldy 54 to just one, "a kind of backstop-here approach," she said.

Illinois Gov. James R. Thompson said he just signed into law a bill banning the commercial sale of cocaine pipes, scales and other drug-related items.

The state law raised from a misdemeanor to a felony the sale of drug paraphernalia from an adult to a minor and included fines of up to $250,000.

Busy month for troopers

District 11 state troopers handled 1,130 calls in July, according to the Collinsville-based unit.

Troopers arrested 29 persons wanted on warrants. Officers recovered 15 stolen vehicles.

For the month, troopers made 226 criminal arrests along with 37 DUI (driving under the influence of alcohol) arrests and 199 other alcohol-related arrests including illegal transportation of open alcohol in a vehicle.

July's traffic enforcement statistics show that troopers made 2,885 traffic arrests and issued 4,034 traffic citations.

Troopers arrested 166 overweight truck drivers were made, with bonds totaling $66,248.

Troopers also inspected 111 vehicles carrying hazardous materials and cited 58 violations.

Troopers handled 362 accidents and there were 12 traffic fatalities in District 11 — in Madison County, one in Clinton County and five in St. Clair. Statewide there were 14 deaths.

Necessity defense aids anti-abortion activists

By Matt Hall
Staff writer

The anti-abortion movement has picked up additional momentum following the rulings of two St. Louis-area judges dismissing trespassing charges against abortion-clinic protesters.

Already, relishing a victory in the U.S. Supreme Court's ruling in July in the Webster v. Reproductive Health Services case — it held that Missouri could legally restrict some aspects of abortion — pro-life/anti-abortion activists expect the number of people protesting abortion by blocking access to abortion clinics to increase.

But pro-life activists say the new rulings could lead to clashes between protesters and women seeking abortions, abortion-clinic workers and police.

"The courts are saying what we are doing is the right thing to do," said Ann O'Brien, head of the Pro-Life Direct Action League. "I think there will be more numbers of people (protesting). I think there will be a lot of new people."

In turn, the clinic operators and other abortion-rights groups say they will increase security at clinics and perhaps expand escort service for women seeking abortions.

"Two training sessions for new escorts have been scheduled for September in response to the rulings," said Lucia Miller of the Missouri affiliate of the National Abortion Rights Action League. "Over 100 pro-choice activists now participate in the program."

O'Brien was one of four protesters to be found not guilty of trespassing charges Aug. 24 by Associate St. Louis Circuit Court Judge Arthur F. Morelli. The protesters were arrested at 100 N. Euclid Ave. in the building that houses Reproductive Health Services in St. Louis' Central West End.

The protesters used the so-called "necessity defense," claiming that their trespassing actions were justifiable to prevent a greater harm.

Morelli ruled that the greater harm was abortion, citing the preamble to the state's abortion law. The Missouri law says that a human life begins at the time of conception.

Associate St. Louis County Circuit Court Judge George R. Gerhardt acknowledged the necessity defense Aug. 16 in dismissing trespassing charges against 21 abortion protesters.

St. Louis Circuit Attorney George Peach said he will not allow any more abortion-related trespassing cases to go before Morelli.

"This will be a short-lived aberration," Peach said. "We can't have civil disorder like this."

Police will continue to crack down on trespassers, Peach said.

Peach, acknowledging that he is a "pro-life person," said protesters were "taking a noble effort and bastardizing the law along the way. That's not right."

A case that has been appealed to the Missouri Court of Appeals in St. Louis is expected to set a precedent on the necessity defense, said Connie Laune, the attorney who represented O'Brien and the other protesters.

In that case the necessity defense was not allowed and the defendants, of whom O'Brien is one, appealed.

Pro-choice and abortion-rights proponents have decried the two judges' rulings.

Fred Epstein, head of the privacy committee of the American Civil Liberties Union of Eastern Missouri, questioned the legal basis for the defense.

"These people are trespassing with a clear intent of preventing women from exercising a right granted to them by the legal system of this country," Epstein said.

Jean Cavender, a spokesman for Reproductive Health Services, said, "Judge Morelli's sanction of this unlawful and disorderly behavior has further shown the willingness of the local judiciary to incite lawlessness and encourage greater acts of violence on the part of a small faction of anti-choice fanatics."

Pro-life activists scoffed at charges that they encourage violence.

"The violence is inside that builds up," O'Brien said. "We are totally non-violent."

Charges dropped against former aide to Eagleton

By Sabrina Eaton
Staff writer

WASHINGTON — A Virginia prosecutor said Aug. 29 he will drop charges against a former Missouri political consultant arrested the previous week on charges of trying to arrange a sexual meeting with a 13-year-old girl.

"The evidence is not sufficient to support the charge," said Assistant Commonwealth Attorney S. Randolph Sengel. "It will be dropped in a routine course of business."

Sengel said he would file a motion to drop charges against 39-year-old John Ashford at a closed hearing Sept. 1 in Alexandria, Va.

Ashford, who once served as an aide to Sen. Thomas Eagleton, was freed on $5,000 bail after appearing before a magistrate in Alexandria, police said.

Ashford was allegedly turned in to the Alexandria police by a male prostitute whom he asked to arrange the encounter.

The prostitute, Stephen L. Gobie, a few days earlier sparked a scandal involving openly gay Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass., when Gobie told newspapers he used to run his business from Frank's apartment.

Frank, who was the prostitute through an advertisement in a Washington gay publication, said he hired Gobie as a personal aide and driver in hopes of reforming him. Frank said he fired him when he realized Frank's apartment was being used for prostitution.

Injuries sustained in crash involving two area vehicles

Five people sustained injuries in a traffic accident at 4:30 p.m. Monday.

Both Fulton and Brummond were driving south on Nameoki Road when a car operated by Tamara L. Brummond, 24, of the 2100 block of E. 24th Street pulled into the roadway from East 24th and a collision resulted, witnesses reported.

Brummond was cited for failure to yield the right of way at an intersection.

Both Fulton and Brummond were injured and taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Also sustaining injuries and taken by ambulance to the medical center for treatment were two passengers in Brummond's car, Gloria J. Turner, 31, and Amanda L. Flora, 8, both of the 2100 block of East 24th Street, and a passenger in Fulton's pickup truck, Jack D. Becker, 40, of the 2500 block of Stratford Lane.

All those hurt were treated in the emergency room and later were released.

Local unemployment at 5-year low, according state's July statistics

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

The unemployment rate in Granite City and Madison County continued to fall in July, reaching a five-year low, according to statistics released by the Illinois Department of Employment Security.

In Madison County, 7,100 persons were unemployed in a total work force of 123,550 — a rate of 5.7 percent. That compares with 6.3 percent in June of this year and 6.7 percent in July 1988.

Since 1985, when the department started keeping such statistics, the previous low was in September 1988, when the rate was 6.3 percent.

In Granite City, 1,400 persons were unemployed in a total work force of 16,975 — a rate of 8.3 percent. That compares with 9.4 percent in June of this year and 10.8 percent in July 1988. The previous low was in April, when the rate was 8.4 percent.

In the entire Illinois Section 1, which comprises the counties of Clinton, Jersey, Madison, Monroe, St. Clair, Bond and Calhoun, there were 17,225 unemployed in a total work force of 278,550 — a rate of 6.2 percent.

That compares with a rate of 7.1 percent in June of this year and 7.1 percent in July 1988. The previous low was September 1988 with a 6.7 percent rate.

Head-on crash injures 2

PONTON BEACH — A head-on collision on Illinois 111 near Lakeside Airport left two men injured at 4:33 p.m. Tuesday.

Pontoon Beach officers were asked to assist Maryville Police, who were pursuing a fleeing motorist on 111. The officers were told the vehicle had struck an Illinois State Police car.

After hitting the ISP squad car, the auto continued on; it left the road and entered a field, but then returned to the highway, heading north in a southbound lane.

At that point, the fleeing auto struck a southbound car head-on.

Jeffrey D. Wrigley, 17, of Collinsville, suspected of being the driver of the fleeing auto, was injured and taken by ambulance to St. Elizabeth Medical Center, where his condition Wednesday was stable.

Road repair planned

EAGLE PARK — About 75 percent of the streets in Eagle Park Acres will be resurfaced this fall. Venice Township officials will award bids on the project Sept. 12.

The project will be funded entirely by a Community Development Block Grant funneled through Madison County from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, said Venice Township Highway Commissioner Eddie Lee Salmond.

The streets are: Hill Street from Allen Street to Roosevelt Drive, Terry Street from Allen to Roosevelt, Harrison Street from Allen to Roosevelt, Allen from Hill Street to Watson Street, and S. Earle Street from Allen to a point 400 feet west. Streets in the Benjamin Addition west of Granite City were resurfaced about five years ago, Salmond said. Two years ago, Watson and portions of Terry and Hill were resurfaced.

Salmond said the township had to wait to do the current project until some drainage problems in the area were solved. Salmond said those problems are "about 85 percent solved" now.

The remaining streets in need of resurfacing are Roosevelt Drive and Booker and Carver streets, Salmond said.

The contracts will be awarded at the Venice Township meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 12, at 7:30 p.m.

Salmond said he expected work to begin by the first week of October and to be completed before winter.

Sunday labor observance set

Trinity United Methodist Church at East 25th and Henry streets will hold a Labor Sunday observance at its Sunday morning worship service at 10:30 Sunday. All worshippers are encouraged to wear what they normally would wear, if they were going to work, whether as laborers, office workers, housewives, service workers or volunteers.

As a part of the service they will thank God for the many different skills and abilities He has given to people to use in this world.

"An invitation is issued to all who would like to share in this service," a spokesman said.

Correction

A story in the Sunday Press-Record/Journal incorrectly listed the date of the annual Aina Shrine paper sale for benefit of Shriners Hospitals for Crippled Children. The correct date of the drive is Sept. 23.

Pet turtle puts bite on owners

By Andy Siering
Staff writer

GRANITE CITY — Mr. Purtle is a talented turtle.

Mr. Purtle the Turtle, so named 31 years ago by the five-year-old triplets of Jerry and June Lux, can do tricks.

Truly stupid pet tricks. The box turtle can hang onto your pants cuff.

He could untie your shoelaces — if he grabbed hold of an end and you moved suddenly.

But what he really excels at is hiding and playing dead. He can even jump if you put him up on the table first.

He can't roll over, though. Mr. Purtle the Turtle is useful.

He could be used as a trumpet mute, a hockey puck, a decorative cocktail coaster and a match-striker.

Of course, the Luxes would never submit him — or her — to such indignities.

The Luxes have never figured out Mr. Purtle's gender. They put other turtles in the basement with him, hoping to figure it out. Mr. Purtle kept biting them.

Maybe they were love bites. Whatever, the Luxes say turtles make great pets.

Mad magazine thinks so too. The satirical mag once listed among the many virtues of turtles the fact that they don't run away (unless it's mating season and you let them out-side).

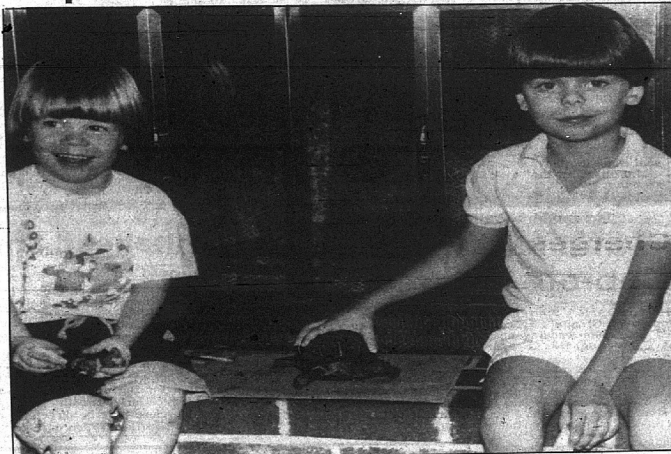

If they do make a break for it, you can always catch them. Speed, obviously, is not their forte.

Mr. Purtle's name originated from the name of their neighbor across the street, June's first triplet son, Gregory. Timothy and Geoffrey, named him after the man, who has since died.

She only recently got up the nerve to tell the widow what their turtle's name was, she said.

(The Luxes live on E. 27th Street. Don't you wish they lived on Myrtle Avenue?)

Aside from an occasional tendency to nibble on feet, Mr.

PURTLE THE TURTLE sits between two admirers, Michael (on left) and Geoffrey Lux, grandchildren of Gerald and June Lux, who have had the box turtle for 31 years.

Purtle is quite friendly. Go down in the basement and within seconds, Mr. Purtle will be following you around.

"He likes to be around people," Jerry said. So much so that Jerry must put Mr. Purtle in the laundry room if he intends to do some work in the basement. He's always underfoot.

(Mad pointed out that turtles don't make any noise if you accidentally step on them.)

Both the Luxes have been bitten on their feet. Maybe that's why they keep Mr. Purtle in the basement except for when their grandchildren come over.

He'll bite your shoes, too, as a reporter discovered. Pants, shoelaces, socks anything at all around him "if I can't get hold of your flesh," Jerry said.

He eats anything, but dog food seems to be his favorite, the Luxes say.

The Luxes insist Mr. Purtle is a good pet, who has gotten along well with all four of the dogs they have owned.

Turtles, which can live past 60, can survive a whole pack of dogs.

Purtle just creeps in his carriage (shell) from day to day, a long life consisting primarily of eating, drinking and sleeping. But he doesn't seem to mind.

No-one knows if turtles get homesome. But just in case they do — or maybe so Mr. Purtle doesn't forget to what species he belongs — the Luxes amuse him by holding a mirror at floor level.

"He thinks it's another turtle and tries to bite it," June said.

THE LAW AND YOU

BY RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Often when an employee starts a new job, he will be given an employee handbook. The question often arises whether an employee may rely upon representations in the handbook. In other words, does the employee handbook create enforceable contractual rights which are binding on the employer?

The Illinois Supreme Court has ruled that certain elements must be present before an employee may rely upon representations in an employee handbook. First, the language in the policy statement must contain a promise clear enough that an employee would reasonably believe that an offer had been made by the employer. Second, the statement in the handbook must be distributed to the employees in such a way that they are aware of its contents and understand the statement as an offer. Thirdly, the employee must accept the offer in the handbook by continuing to work after learning of the policy statement. If all of these conditions are present, a valid contract is formed, and the employee has a right to rely upon promises in the handbook.

In one recent case, a man was employed by a hospital as a mental health specialist. He was suspended and later terminated from his job for violating the regulations on confidentiality contained in the hospital's handbook. The employee later filed suit against the hospital and alleged that the handbook constituted a contract between himself and the hospital. He felt that the hospital breached the contract by terminating him.

It should be noted that the first page of the handbook stated that it was not intended to create a contract of employment. An introduction from the hospital's president on the first page stated that the book was simply intended to generally describe the hospital and its procedures and policies.

The Appellate Court in this case eventually ruled that the employee handbook did not create an employment contract since the handbook contained a disclaimer on the first page. The Court felt it was significant that the handbook itself indicated that it was not intended to create a contract of employment.

It is apparent from this case that courts will determine on a case by case basis whether an employee can rely upon representations in the handbook and procedures indicated in the handbook would be wise to place a written disclaimer in the book as did the hospital in the case noted above.

Tips for safe skateboarding

As skateboarding becomes increasingly popular, the number of accidents attributed to this sport is growing. The National Safety Council has these tips for using a skateboard safely:

• Check your board for loose, broken or cracked parts; sharp edges; a slippery top surface; or wheels with nicks or cracks. Serious defects should be professionally repaired.

• Choose a skateboarding area away from pedestrians, bicycles and vehicles.

• Wear protective gear, including a helmet; padding for hips, knees and elbows; and closed, slip-resistant shoes.

• When riding, keep an eye out for holes, rocks, bumps and debris. Never hitch a ride from a car or bicycle, and save complicated tricks for a specially designated skateboard area.

• If you should fall, try to relax your body — you're more likely to get hurt if you remain tense.

Introducing the Common Sense CD.

Magna's new two-year CD really makes a lot of sense. With just a $2,500 minimum deposit, you can lock into a guaranteed high rate and still have the option to change the rate one time during the two-year life of the CD without any penalty what-so-ever!

The Common Sense CD rate is based on two points below our prime rate. So, if our prime goes up to say 12 1/4% anytime during the next two years, you could then increase your rate to 10 1/4%.

And there's more good news. If our prime would happen to drop, you are still guaranteed the 8 1/2% minimum for the two-year term of the CD. At maturity, this CD will automatically renew at our regular two-year CD rate unless you notify us within the 10-day grace period.

Of course, each depositor is insured up to $100,000 by the FDIC. But please remember, federal law requires a substantial penalty for early withdrawal. The Magna Common Sense CD rate shown above is based on our current prime rate and is subject to change.

This limited time offer may be withdrawn at any time, so hurry.

TIF

"People will be afraid that they're going to lose the house within a few years if the city decides to buy the area for industry or something," one man said.

At the present time we have absolutely no plans to buy anything anywhere outside of the proposed Wal-Mart area," Orbals said. "The only reason we want to include your area in this district is because the state law says that we can only spend money raised in a TIF district for improvements within that district. We're hoping to raise enough money that we can offer low-interest loans or maybe even grants to people to fix up their property."

"What if our property doesn't need fixing, or if we don't want to fix it up?" asked a woman. "I may have to take on new loans or have the city tell us what our house is supposed to look like," said one woman.

"I'm not sure I know what I'm really driving at," Orbals answered. "Do you mean would we condemn it?" asked Mayor Von De Cruse. "Well, yes, we probably would, but that's a long way off."

"We're not out to cause any body any trouble or hardship," said Orbals.

Orbals said he hadn't yet read Owen's letter, which was presented but not read aloud at the hearing. It was addressed to the mayor and downtown committee. The letter, in part, said:

"Generally speaking, what may be good for the central business TIF district may or may not be good for education. A program that attracts people must also attract their tax dollars in order for schools to provide the necessary resources to educate children."

"But the TIF district which is designed to attract people, if it siphons off tax dollars to retire long-term bonds, places a burden on the school district and on the taxpayers who don't reside in the TIF district."

"A viable community must have good schools. On the other hand, a well-financed school system can survive even in an unfavorable environment."

"Specifically, I understand and appreciate the difficulty to do a foolproof TIF district because of untested, complex legislation."

"Therefore, I am requesting that this public hearing be rescheduled. I believe that our people in the parade and between 2,500 and 3,000 people watching along the parade route," said Hoover.

The parade kicks off from N. Springfield Ave. at 8 a.m. and continues east on N. Springfield Ave. to Madison Avenue, left to go north on Madison Avenue to 28th Street, and left again to Wilson Park at 28th and State streets.

The United Way will sell hot dogs and hamburgers at the park, and Hoover said free soda will be available. There will also be games and a tug-of-war.

Local public officials will address the crowd at the park, and Hoover stressed that only those officially invited will be allowed to speak.

Parade participants will begin to line up at 8 a.m. Labor Day, and the units in front will begin the march at 10 a.m.

Board Members should have 60 days after receipt of an individual's official copy of your development plan before being requested to respond. This will permit board members time to form independent opinions concerning the effect on our school district.

"I'm really hurt that so many of you feel that we're trying to 'gyp' you. I feel like somehow we've failed to make our point clearly. I really think that if you understood what we're trying to do, everyone in this room would be in favor of the plan," Cruse said.

Only a few residents spoke in favor of TIF expansion.

"When people ask me if I'm afraid of this, I say no. This is a great opportunity for our city," said Cruse.

"Thank you," replied the mayor. "We're glad you recognize that."

"We don't have all the answers — we don't have a crystal ball," Cruse said. "We just want what's best for our city."

Parade

Eight to 10 floats are also expected to be entered in the parade.

"We expect to have about 800 people in the parade and between 2,500 and 3,000 people watching along the parade route," said Hoover.

The parade kicks off from N. Springfield Ave. at 8 a.m. and continues east on N. Springfield Ave. to Madison Avenue, left to go north on Madison Avenue to 28th Street, and left again to Wilson Park at 28th and State streets.

The United Way will sell hot dogs and hamburgers at the park, and Hoover said free soda will be available. There will also be games and a tug-of-war.

Election

The four will be unopposed. Not filing was Ed Dohmal, who is retiring from the board.

In Venice, Philip White Sr. of 203 Granville St., Alvester Salmund of 200 Roosevelt Drive in Eagle Park, Kirk Gardner of 210 Harrison Ave. in Eagle Park and George Wade Sr. of 431 Lincoln Ave. filed as incumbents seeking re-election.

Two others also filed in Venice. They are Alice Jackson of 413 Lincoln Ave. and Ruby Johnson of 531 Washington Ave.

Injunction

(Continued from Page 1A) Neither Madison County nor Chouteau Township claims Cote Brillante is theirs, officials have said. But Chouteau Township has long maintained the street, under an agreement worked out in 1964, officials said.

A trial date of Sept. 7 was set to determine whether Cote Brillante is a private street or a public thoroughfare, the attorneys said.

other plans the city had for raising revenue if the Wal-Mart store plan fell through.

"We'd look into other stores, big organizations that would really anchor the area, but we like to see what Wal-Mart's going to do. They're the biggest and would, we feel, be the best. We don't want to offend them by giving ultimatums," Orbals said.

Mayor Cruse said, "What we're going to do here is rebuild our city — to stop the spread of the cancer of exodus that has left our downtown in a deteriorating condition. We're just trying to do what's best for Granite City," he said.

From no expectations to great expectations, it's Sister Linda

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

Things weren't always easy for Linda Hylla.

When she was diagnosed with a thyroid disorder, doctors told her parents, Leonard and Loreta Hylla, not to expect much of their young daughter — especially not where education was concerned.

Now, Sister Linda is beginning her second year of graduate studies in social work at Washington University, St. Louis. At 23, she is the youngest member of the Sisters of Divine Providence in the St. Louis metropolitan area.

She has been working in the Child Development unit at the Kottler Center of St. Elizabeth Medical Center since 1987, but Sr. Linda is quick to say that for her it isn't work.

"I love people," she said. "People are my hobby."

Raised by Catholic parents in Madison, Sr. Linda said they are responsible for her desire to help others.

"They always had an 'open door' policy," she said. "If any one needed help or just needed someone to listen, they were there."

Her desire to help others motivated her to make something of herself. Sr. Linda said that initially, people believed the doctor's assessment and expected little or nothing from her.

"I believed it, too," she recalled.

"I figured — if they aren't going to expect anything from me, why should I bother?"

But following one of a few "rebellious" stages, Sr. Linda's attitude did an about face.

"I knew I had a lot more going for me than what they said, so I proved them wrong. I decided to save the world."

Sr. Linda originally thought that "saving the world" meant working in a Third World country, possibly with the Peace Corps. But later she decided that just wasn't true.

"I saw how depressed this area was and I realized I could do that right in my own backyard," Sr. Linda said.

While she has abandoned her original plans for the world, Sr. Linda is content with the work she does with children and the 12 who suffer the effects of broken homes, behavior disorders or other emotional obstacles.

"Looking back, I know I can't save the world but I can make a difference in people's lives," she said.

The treatment is short-term, and her religious background helps her accept the parting.

"It's challenging because you may never see that kid again."

Sr. Linda Hylla
... people are my hobby.

You just have to take it on faith that something good has happened to them," she said.

Sr. Linda said her religious life and her career in social work are "very parallel" positions.

She said that the two became intertwined in her search for herself.

Sr. Linda said that following her initial decision to enter the convent, she felt she had to convince herself that her decision was right. She attempted to do this by spending a "wild" vacation in Florida.

"It was really the first time that I had decided to do something with some conviction," she recalled.

"I was scared, scared of the calling and scared that I'd make the wrong choice."

But while she was in Florida, the choice became obvious.

"The more I partied, the stronger the calling got," Sr. Linda said.

"I knew that I had to stop running away from myself."

Sr. Linda entered the Sisters of Divine Providence in 1980, took her first vows in 1985 and renewed them in the spring of 1988. She emphasized that she will take final vows in about two years.

"Final commitment no longer threatens me," she said.

In addition to her work at SEMC, Sr. Linda was also active in the 1987 founding of "Call for Help," a crisis prevention line, and the "Youth Connection," which operates from 2:30 p.m. to 7:30 p.m. weekdays to assist

Local students find the 'Evil Empire' isn't

By Meg Tebo
Staff writer

A group of local students found out this summer the U.S.S.R. is not the place of American myth and misconception they expected. Some said American students have been taught that Soviets hate Americans, that everyone in the U.S.S.R. is an ardent Communist, that Soviet citizens are either miserably unhappy in their homeland because of oppression by their government or have been indoctrinated to believe that the United States and other western countries would like to destroy the Soviet system.

But the students returned home with a much different view. "People our age there are so involved in the peace movement. No one said anything bad about the U.S. Kids in America don't talk much about peace and I guess I didn't expect that Russian kids did, either," said Roger Schrenk, a student at Marquette High School in Alton. Members of the group were first surprised at how easily they passed through Customs. They had heard stories about Americans traveling in Russia years ago and some of the students had expected to be searched.

"We had more trouble coming back into the U.S. than we did getting in or out of Russia," said Amy Votoupal, a recent graduate of the University of Illinois who lives in Granite City.

One of the biggest misconceptions the students think Americans have about the Soviets is that they're not friendly and would be afraid to talk to Americans out of nationalism or fear of reprisals by their own government.

"They could tell an American a mile away, because of the way we dressed and carried ourselves," said Tracy Polach, a Granite City High School student. "As soon as they saw us, they'd run up and ask us to trade for stuff like American chewing gum, which they love. They were full of questions about the U.S., too."

Although many of the young people in the U.S.S.R. wanted to hear first-hand about the United States and many wanted to visit, the local group reported that most Russians are not as anxious to leave their homeland as Americans might think.

"A lot wanted to visit, but none really wanted to stay. There are so many choices to be made in everyday life here that are made for them there, like where to work and where to live. They feel overwhelmed by all of it when they come here, and want to go back to where the pressure is lessened, life seems simpler and, to some extent, safer to them," Roger said.

"They think we're all rich and that we get to do whatever we want with no controls or rules," Amy said. "When you compare standards of living, I guess you could say we're rich by comparison, but they think we have enough money to do absolutely whatever we want."

Most Soviets live in small urban apartments, few drive, and television sets are considered a luxury that few can afford, according to Dorothy Votoupal, a Marquette High School teacher of Russian and one of the group's leaders.

The students found that although unemployment is low because each person is guaranteed a job by the government, the quality of merchandise produced there is far inferior to that in America. "The government decides what will be produced, and how much and how quickly. A lot of the food that is produced in the countryside spoils before it ever gets to market," Mrs. Votoupal said.

I saw a lot of trucks going by just empty, carrying nothing to nowhere," Roger said. "There's a whole aura of slowness and inefficiency. There's not much ambition because there's not any reward for doing better and no punishment for not doing your best."

Even though the group found young Soviets to be quite friendly, the same was not usually true of older citizens. "The 'babushkas' (older ladies wearing head scarves) were absolutely nuts if you tried to take their picture. They remember too well the days when Russians could get into trouble for associating with foreigners," Tracy said. Although anticipating that the food would be "exotic," the visitors found instead that it was "very plain."

"They had lots and lots of cucumbers, but no other veggies. We also saw cow tongue, pigeon, pumpernickel bread by the ton and more fat than I like to eat in a year," Amy said. "There was almost no protein, but lots of fat."

"They never heard of real eggs and bacon," she added. Since the students traveled in June, they experienced the "white nights" of the far north. The sky turned a murky gray in the wee hours of the morning, but the rest of the time was bright as day. And, the group said, people took advantage of the daylight to be outdoors.

"We walked around Leningrad at about 11 p.m., and there were people out. There were guys with guitars and sketch pads and stuff. It's what I imagine the 1960s were like in this country," Amy said.

"In the underground sidewalks, we came across some guys playing Beatles songs and we joined in singing," Tracy said. "It was like a touch of home."

People weren't as unhappy as some of the group expected, but "the stuff about the drinking problem there is true," said Amy.

The students were invited to attend a military school graduation and party. Tracy reported being moved by the generosity of one boy in particular.

"He had gotten a box of this really good chocolate as a graduation gift, and when he heard how much we hated the food there, his mother told him to give it (the candy) to us, so he did."

"It was great stuff and we all enjoyed it back at the hotel, but you can imagine someone being that nice? It was probably expensive candy that he doesn't get very often," Tracy said. The students also noticed that most people wore clothing styles that would be considered outdated in this country.

"Polyester," said one student. "And nothing matched." "But they do like anything that looks western," Roger added. "They'd wear all their American or European-style clothing together whether it looked right that way or not. It was like a status symbol to have lots of western stuff."

The group was also surprised to find that many people spoke English. "They know that's the way to communicate with foreigners to trade with us and get us to buy things with American money, which is worth much more on the street than the official exchange rate," Mrs. Votoupal said.

And since products like vodka, sugar and cigarettes are rationed, the Russian people use the money made on the street to buy those items in foreign-currency stores — those that are designated as allowed to officially accept foreign currency for purchases. It is not legal for most other vendors to deal in money other than rubles, the official currency.

But since the underground exchange rate on the street is often 10 times better than the official rate, the group advises potential travelers against taking a lot of travelers' checks, which can only be cashed at official exchange centers. "Take lots of one-dollar bills," said Roger.

"They like to try to get American money, but they can't make change, since they're not supposed to have it anyway."

The students also found that, contrary to Americans' fears, their Soviet counterparts really aren't any better educated than American kids.

"There's very strict discipline, and they learn things in a different order, like they might start studying algebra in grade school. But they don't seem to know it any better by the time they're in their teens than we do. There's just not the competition for grades like we have," Roger said.

And what about the infamous geographical illiteracy that American students are supposed to have compared to their foreign counterparts?

"Well, as for this country, they knew where Chicago was and could sort of figure out the biggest cities in relation to one another, but they didn't have any idea how big America is or the fact that we have so many states. They'd never heard of St. Louis," Roger said.

Despite problems and differences, there's an optimism among Soviet youth, the Americans agreed.

"I even saw a billboard on the side of the road that said 'Peace to the World' with a hammer and sickle (traditional Soviet symbol)," Roger related.

"They want to get to know us. They don't hate us at all," he said.

... a side trip to Western Europe

Dorothy, Amy and Chris Votoupal, members of the group of local residents who journeyed to the Soviet Union in June, continued their vacation by meeting a family member and some friends for a visit with the Wayne family, formerly of Bernhausen, West Germany.

Members of the touring group traveled around Germany, Austria and Italy, taking in the sights and comparing European lifestyles to their own.

"I expected little huts, and that no one would speak much English," Amy Votoupal said. "But it was very pretty there and the people were very friendly, although families are quite private and stay to themselves in general."

"We met two little kids, who we thought were Americans because their English was so good, but we later found out that they were Germans," said Steve Schaus, a Granite City High School student who grew up with one of the Wayne boys he had come to visit.

The group found that restaurants were what Americans might consider "fancy," but not necessarily expensive. "The food was excellent, for the most part," Steve said.

"We learned that their schools are pretty high-tech and that they take sports seriously — they build these huge sports complexes just for high schools."

"Also, in classes, they just sit in place and the teachers come to them, instead of vice versa like we do it here."

German young people have a strict upbringing, including a local curfew that requires under-age people to be off the streets by 9 p.m.

The students found that unlike the Soviet Union, Germany and Italy were ahead of the United States in terms of fashion. "We got next year's stuff for here at close-out prices there," Amy said.

The students reported seeing very few poor people. This is due, they said, to a strong German work ethic.

What some found most surprising was the strict traffic laws in Germany, even though the highways, known as autobahns, have no legal speed limit.

"Everyone has fancy cars, but there is no rust allowed on vehicles, and dirty cars get ticketed."

"They actually take movies of violations and mail out tickets to the car owners," Steve said. "And they can take your driver's license away just on a suspicion of drunken driving."

Sun will heat up area newspaper competition in September

I don't have any "inside information" on the St. Louis Sun. Its officials are making their own decisions and are fully capable of promoting the new daily newspaper that will begin publication Sept. 28. But it might be interesting today to discuss the Sun from readers' standpoint.

It's unusual to see a brand-new metropolitan daily take shape, and many people are looking forward to the colorful tabloid newspaper that will be distributed seven mornings each week.

"NATIONAL INTEREST" has been attracted by the fact that no big daily paper has been successfully established since Newsday was started in the New York City area in 1946, unless you count a national rather than metropolitan paper, USA Today, a successful weekdays-only paper.

(Some say the prototype of the Sun bears a resemblance to Newsday.)

Journalism trade magazines have spotlighted the "horse race" aspects of a two-daily city or region.

There has been criticism of media coverage of presidential elections as horse races — who is leading, rather than the candidates are saying about public issues.

So let's just wish both of the newspaper contenders well; surely there is room in this region for both the newcomer and the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMNISTS have gotten much of the attention so far. That was somewhat predictable because they garner a degree of fame or notoriety, through having their pictures and opinions in the paper.

If you think of Chicago newspapers, for example, the person who will first come to your mind is columnist Mike Royko. That was available but the Sun will have its own Royko, Kevin Horigan, lured away from the sports editor (chief sports columnist).

On the Sun, he will write on a wide range of topics.

Winter wonderland

By Bill Winter

Horigan has praised the new paper as one that will be "brisk, not sleazy."

ALSO LURED AWAY were the P-D's Karen Komar as Sun political columnist, and also P-D General Manager Thomas Talarco.

Meanwhile, it was revealed that Horigan had been scheduled to start a general news column for the P-D, alternating with feature section columnist Bill McClellan. That won't happen now, and McClellan has been promoted to general columnist for the P-D, competing head-to-head with Horigan.

Jerry Berger, gossip/entertainment columnist, will remain with the P-D, as will McClellan and several sports writers, all of whom received raises and contracts to stay with the P-D.

A "PEOPLE" COLUMN about regional personalities is to be featured in the Sun, along with a lifestyle/entertainment section, extensive local business news, and a "fun book" of local columnists, and regular columns by such diverse commentators as Jesse Jackson (on Saturdays) and Pat Buchanan on the right.

A big weekend edition of the Sun on Saturday mornings will provide glossy magazines — including a "fun book" and television news.

"Barney the bartender" will answer sports trivia questions sent in by readers.

WITH THE PRICE of the Sun set at 25 cents ($1 on Saturdays) or $11 a month, circulation in the early months has been projected at 75,000 to 100,000.

Late-breaking news and sports can be included until 1 or 1:30 a.m.

There is no connection whatever with the former St. Louis Globe-Democrat, but there will be former Globe as well as former Post writers on the Sun staff.

The Saturday edition will exceed 100 pages, the Sunday paper will total 64 to 72 pages, and the Monday through Friday editions will have about 80 pages.

SWITCHING ON OCT. 15 from the P-D will be Knight-Ridder/Tribune News (KRTN) Information Services, which will serve the Sun and the daily Alton Telegraph.

KRTN also is expected to provide news services to several European newspaper markets being developed by Ingersoll Publications Co. INPC owns the Sun, the Telegraph and the Suburban Journals of Greater St. Louis.

Both INPC and Pulitzer Publishing, P-D owner, have indicated they are serious about competing in St. Louis, even though most metropolitan areas now are dominated by a single newspaper.

Both seem to have the know-how and the financing to make a real fight, which both could win by co-existing.

KEY DATES include the October-to-December holiday advertising period, during which there will be no serious rivalry for stores' display ad dollars, and Feb. 28, the expiration date for P-D employee contracts.

Chasing from Seyfarth, Shaw, Fairweather & Geraldson of Chicago, the P-D will be represented in labor talks by King & Ballou of Nashville.

Instead of negotiating with a coalition, the P-D through a new law firm will deal separately with 11 groups.

A good start for Rep. Costello

Jerry Costello's first year in office was a good one. If his second year falls anywhere close, he will have earned re-election in 1990.

In a short time, Costello has mastered the art of Congressional communication, both with his Washington, D.C., counterparts and his constituents back home.

Consider a few things:

•The rookie congressman proposed, got Congress to pass and got the President to sign a bill authorizing a land swap that will lead to a major marina development in Alton. The surprising speed with which the bill sailed through Congress was a tribute to political skill.

•He has held 50 town hall meetings in the last year, enabling the public to come to him on a one-to-one basis. The meetings have been spread throughout the 21st Congressional District, making them convenient to a widespread populace. Predecessor Melvin Price, although a great statesman and an effective leader for 40-plus years, was much more low-key in his final years.

•Costello has correctly established his priorities in coming months — the budget deficit, the drug problem, education and health care. Corrected in that order, each problem would aid the solution of the next.

•He has shown great responsiveness. We can speak to that as he has returned every call or accounted for every question we have had for him.

•Economically speaking, he is actively pushing development of Scott Air Force Base as a dual-use facility serving both the military and the public. This is viewed by us as one of the most important regional projects going. He's also pushing development of the East St. Louis riverfront and the Clark Bridge replacement in Alton.

Many people wondered what kind of representative Jerry Costello would make. Judging from what we've seen, he looks like the kind southwestern Illinois could use.

Irony new encroachment issue

No "intercontinental" airport will be built at Columbia-Waterloo in Metro East, it became clear years ago. But Illinoisans once again find themselves targeted by "Lambert forever" proponents, who favor unlimited St. Louis airport expansion, with not a penny spent elsewhere.

The current issue is not the Columbia area but whether the Scott Air Force Base field should be expanded to give the bi-state area added civilian air travel capacity at a bargain price. Some say any such airport activity would be evil unless it occurred in Missouri. Instead of moving Interstate 70 or taking a big bite out of McDonnell-Douglas property, they now propose extending Lambert at great cost to the northwest.

The Columbia airport idea backed by the federal government in the mid-1970s had merit but caused anguish for the Monroe County residents who would have been uprooted. There is no joy in seeing others suffer anguish, but there is irony in listening to the cries of alarm from Lambert's neighbor, Bridgeton.

Delay tactics and Illinoisans' opposition were cleverly exploited a decade and a half ago to kill Intercontinental. Will St. Louis Countians' concerns about Lambert encroachment be listened to now or ignored?

The key question remains: How best to assure enough overall air-line and gate capacity, in order for the metropolitan area to continue growing and attracting people, jobs and businesses? If it requires Scott joint-use to help keep Greater St. Louis viable, does it really make sense for "Missourians forever" to blindly fight Belleville?

Sports must have untainted results

Jai alai is a spectator sport in Florida, where you can bet on the outcome of its games from your seat in the arena. It's convenient, but are you sure the results are unpredictable? Some people shy away from betting on jai alai (pronounced high lie) because players easily could control who wins or loses.

Horse racing was considered a safer bet until some owners injected chemicals into their animals. Baseball and baseball betting thrive on the assumption that every team is giving its best effort every day, but Pete Rose's lifetime suspension shows that this "ain't necessarily so."

Rose is focusing on his hopes for reinstatement and for election to the Hall of Fame. Some Granite Citians agree with him that he should be elevated to the Hall of Fame.

An additional point, however, is the threat to the national pastime's integrity if a manager befriends gamblers and bets on baseball.

If a manager's decision to bet on a particular game, or not bet, was noted by those who accept his wagers, they could describe the pattern to others, who could then bet accordingly. His decision to relieve or not relieve a pitcher could affect the score and the final result of a game. This in turn could affect the future of the pitching staff for future contests. Pinch-hit, hit-and-run, squeeze play and other signals also come into question if a manager wants his team to win today, more so than tomorrow.

Rose has been paid millions of dollars, and properly so; he garnered more hits than anyone else in the long history of the game. As a manager, his fame attracted crowds to the stadium.

Why anyone this wealthy would need to place numerous large bets — on baseball or anything else — is hard to understand.

Sadly, he failed to act appropriately as a role model to admiring youngsters. For the good of the sport that he enriched and that enriched him, he should no longer be allowed to influence it.

City votes at what price?

To the editor:

Mr. Cruse has been credited with spending $8 per vote. Mr. Warfield has been credited with $7 per vote. See how much money is present in local elections?

All the money that you poor citizens gave to Mac Warfield's campaign is a total loss because your candidate was not elected to become mayor of Granite City. See the stupidity of spending money on such causes? Why is it that people continue throwing money around that way?

Money should not dominate campaigns. Truth and righteousness should govern political campaigns. What good does it do to buy your way into public office, with the expenses paid by ignorant contributors? People could have provided me with a decent job for all the money they throw away on political nonsense.

People, you do not have to take part in all that insanity. Merely find good people and place them in office. This is sanity.

Why do people still bow to silly traditions? You people should seriously sit down and take a good look at all the rituals you participate in willfully.

Christians should have better sense than to spend thousands of dollars in this manner. City elections happen every four years; therefore, permanent employment does not come from these campaign expenditures.

Politicians are not to bow to special interest groups which spend thousands of dollars to get their man in place. Politicians are to consider everyone in their jurisdiction and make sane judgments.

Politicians are to protect the morality and high standards of their communities. No back door policies. No special interest groups.

Why are some above the law?

To the editor:

I noticed Dan Partney loves to keep his ego inflated by all the news coverage he gets through fighting and wrong-precinct voting and many other things. Can't he stay out of trouble?

Maybe he knows something other people don't know. It's that he can do all this stuff and get by with it on the law.

An Aug. 24 issue stated that no charges will be filed against the two public figures concerning their fist fights in Springfield, Ill.

Group assails anti-choice tactics

To the editor:

We deplore the tactics of anti-choice protesters who harass clients of the Hope Clinic. We especially object to the extremist and violent behavior of Operation Rescue.

In cases of domestic violence, it has been found that immediate arrests and incarceration of the offenders are the most effective way to have domestic tranquility. The same is true for community violence. The prompt charges and incarceration of Operation Rescue offenders were effective in preventing even more violent behavior.

We wish to thank the Granite City Police for their courage in the filing of charges sufficient to ensure public order.

Incident beneath paper's standards

To the editor:

With all due respect to your newspaper and its editorial staff, the headline story in your Aug. 23 edition ("Alderman, Pontoon policeman, in Springfield, Melee") seems beneath your standards and far afield from the general interest of your readership.

By your central coverage of this puny incident, you are telling your readers that there is no other topic of primary interest that you are able to bring us. Give me a break!

Surely something in Granite City is more interesting and important than this. With this you lower your standard of reporting and serve up real journalistic junk food to your readers.

Computer chips were down, but papers went out

Far too often we take for granted our public utilities. This week at the newspaper we found out just how big of a problem that can become.

The thunderstorm in Granite City on Monday did far more than dump a half-inch of rain on the area. It also caused a journalistic nightmare. Let's call it "Nightmare on Delmar."

Two back-to-back power surges Monday afternoon blew out the circuitry essential to operation of our newsroom computer terminals. There we were, pressing to get three Wednesday Journal editions finished, and nothing to write on, save for one obsolete typewriter next to my desk. The repairmen were called. We waited.

At 10 p.m., two of our six terminals were restored to working order, but by that time everyone had gone home in frustration. Yours truly returned for some nighttime duty, accomplishing what he could by 1 a.m. He figured on finishing the rest in the morning. He was wrong again. At 6:30 a.m. Tuesday, I walked into the newsroom and there sat copy desk chief Bill Winter with a forlorn look. "We have no computers," he said. "We also have no phones, no air conditioning... and no coffee."

No coffee! That was serious!

The lingering effect of the previous power surge managed to blow out a main transformer sometime during the night. All we had were lights, a couple of wall sockets and one working telephone in the entire building. And the next deadline was less than four hours away.

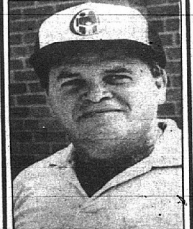

I did the only thing I could think to do, quickly dispatching manpower to Journal offices in Collinsville and Belleville. Photographer Pat Foley found a working wall socket and, Illinois Power and Light repair crews were here all day Tuesday, and between them, our sister offices and ourselves, we managed to put out three papers, albeit a little late.

Though he had no inkling, staff writer Andy Siering was the only one who dressed appropriately. He came in wearing his Tuesday special, a Tom Selleck Hawaiian shirt. He fit in well in Sauna City.

Should Pete Rose be eligible for induction to the Hall of Fame?

Do you think Pete Rose should be eligible for induction into the Baseball Hall of Fame, in light of his suspension for life from baseball over allegations about his betting on professional sports including baseball?

Glenn Dickey, 45, Granite City

"Yes, he should be able to go into the Hall of Fame — as a player. What he did as a manager is a different ball game."

Barbara Painter, 48, Granite City

"I think so. He earned it. He earned it before the alleged betting took place."

John Blurton, 19, Granite City

"Yes, he's put a lot of time in baseball. Every body makes mistakes. He should have an equal chance."

$750,000 settlement on injury

Granite City attorney Ronald S. Motil recently won a $750,000 settlement for a client in a lawsuit resulting from a 1986 accident at Illinois Power's Clinton nuclear power electricity-generating plant.

Robert Faulk of Houston was injured in a fall from a scaffold while performing his work as an insulator.

The settlement provides for periodic payments continuing over Faulk's lifetime.

Faulk said a disabling back injury now prevents him from pursuing his customary work. The settlement was reached with representatives of Illinois Power and Baldwin Associates, the general contractor.

Motil is a partner in the law firm of Becker and Motil P.C., 1561 Johnson Road.

Winning idea worth $3,000 for Granite City employee

SPRINGFIELD — An idea that was "so simple I'm embarrassed by it" brought a Granite City woman a $3,000 check from the state and could save Illinois taxpayers more than $21,000 a year.

Janet Hetherington, 49, who works in the Illinois Department of Employment Security office in Alton, came up with a simple idea that netted her a $3,000 award Aug. 23.

After she began working at the Alton DES office in 1986, Hetherington noticed that all the computer equipment was left on around the clock.

"I am one of those compulsive light switchers-offers and that seemed like a flagrant waste of energy to me," Hetherington said.

When she saw a poster about

"I am one of those compulsive light switchers-offers and that seemed like a flagrant waste of energy to me."

Janet Hetherington

two years ago urging state employees to submit cost-saving ideas for possible cash awards, she entered.

"Unless there is a technical reason why the terminals cannot be turned off, my suggestion is that it be done," she wrote.

At a news conference in Springfield, Hetherington was presented with the second largest check awarded so far by the State Employees' Suggestion Award Board under a program begun in 1986.

She was stunned when notified in May she would be receiving the award.

"Little did I know my idea would save this kind of money or mean this much to me," Hetherington said.

The prize followed a lengthy analysis by the computer division of the State Department of Central Management Services to evaluate what terminals could be shut off at the end of each workday without causing any damage.

About 45 percent of the terminals could be turned off when not in use, saving $21,192 a year in electric costs.

Central Management Services director Eugene Reincke sent out a memo last week to all state agency directors asking them to instruct employees to turn off computer equipment "whenever feasible" after reviewing the manufacturers' manuals.

Hetherington has been a DES employee since 1971. She is a program representative, processing unemployment claims and helping in new job placements.

Her $3,000 award was second only to a $5,000 check given earlier to a Springfield woman for a suggestion involving the state's bank deposits.

So far, state employees have received about $18,000 in awards for suggestions estimated to result in total savings of about $1.3 million per year.

AFSCME ratifies SIUE contract

A three-year contract with Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, including retroactive pay benefits to July 1, was ratified in a unanimous vote on Aug. 23 by employees represented by American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees (AFSCME) Local 2887.

The union represents clerical and kindred and technical/paraprofessional employees at the university.

The negotiated pay increase averaged 8.75 percent. This will be reflected in paychecks issued in September. Funding was provided in the Fiscal Year 1990 appropriation bill for Southern Illinois University, adopted by the General Assembly and approved by Gov. James Thompson in July. The appropriation included an 8.275-percent increase in the university's personal service base for salary increases.

In addition, the new contract includes equity adjustments that were negotiated for represented employees, based on guidelines that were similar to those used in providing adjustments for non-represented employees last year.

AFSCME represents approximately 400 employees at the university.

The Illinois Department of Transportation said interested parties may write concerning the proposed work to the Division of Water Resources, Bureau of Resource Management, 2300 S. Dirksen Parkway, Room 024, Springfield, IL 62764 by Sept. 5.

Two join East Side Publications staff

GRANITE CITY — Mark Schmersahl of Columbia, Ill., has been named assistant general manager of East Side Publications, which publishes the Granite City Press-Record/Journal, Calokin-Dupo Journal and East St. Louis News-Journal. Rick Jarvis, president and publisher, announced.

Jarvis also announced the addition of Leonard Woolsey, formerly of Kansas City, Mo., to the Granite City sales staff as an account executive.

Schmersahl was formerly the general manager of the Monroe County Publishing Co., based in Columbia, which publishes the Columbia Star, Millstadt Enterprise and Clarion Journal.

He had been general manager of Monroe County Publishing since the company's purchase by the Suburban Journals in 1987.

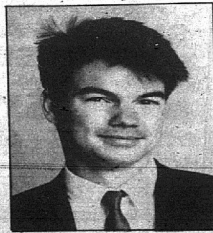

Previously, he had been a sales manager and account representative for the company.

Schmersahl has an undergrad-

Mark Schmersahl from Columbia

uate degree in marketing and management from Eastern Illinois University in Charleston, where he played basketball and rugby. His wife, Linda, is a school teacher in Columbia. Schmersahl said he has been coming to Granite City for meetings during the past two years and was impressed with the potential of the company and the friendly staff.

"I am looking forward to meeting as many of the area's residents and business owners as possible in the months to come," he said. "I want to be part of producing the best newspaper in Madison County."

Woolsey is a recent graduate of Central Missouri State University in Warrensburg, where he earned a degree in mass communications.

He worked at the Genesco advertising firm in Kansas City, where he served as a sales associate, assistant department manager and assistant to the district manager.

He also developed advertising and promotion campaigns for the "Slugs," the indoor soccer team of Longview Community College in Lee's Summit, Mo.

Woolsey is in the process of moving to the Granite City area.

Martin challenges Simon contributions

Democrat Paul Simon should either refuse to accept the special-interest campaign contributions he has so strongly condemned, or admit he subscribes to the "do as I say, not as I do" theory of politics, U.S. Rep. Lynn Martin said.

"He can't have it both ways," said Martin, a five-term member of Congress who wants to be the Republican nominee for the U.S. Senate seat now held by Simon.

Law restricts takeovers

Varied new laws affecting Illinoisans have been signed by Gov. James R. Thompson.

Corporate Anti-Takeover (HB 165): Limits the ability of corporate raiders, or other interested shareholders, to make hostile takeovers of Illinois corporations.

Savings and Loan Changes (HB 261): Expands the authority of the Commissioner of Savings and Loan Associations to investigate non-licensees alleged to be conducting regulated activities. Expands the scope of the Illinois Savings and Loan Act of 1985 to specifically include savings banks.

Park District Boundaries (HB 390): Allows park districts to disconnect from their boundaries any area of 20 acres or more that has levied less than $10,000 each year for the previous five years and whose disconnection won't isolate any part of the district. Applies to districts in counties with populations over 250,000 but less than 1,000,000.

Sanitary District Changes (HB 261): Allows a sanitary district to plan and establish general and specific locations for conduits, pipes, and pumping stations and to refuse those not built in accordance with the plan. Also allows for a district name change when two or more municipalities are within a district's boundaries.

Groundwater Protection and MFT Tax Hike (SB 64): Amends the Groundwater Protection Act to allow larger setback zones near community water wells. Increases the Motor Fuel tax by 3/10ths of one cent to fund an underground gasoline storage tank clean-up program.

Fire District Elections (HB 331): Allows a fire protection district, voting by referendum, to have elected rather than appointed trustees.

Energy Assistance (SB 392): Expands the Illinois Residential Affordable Payment Program by authorizing the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs to provide energy assistance through grants or utility bill credits to low-income persons and families.

Vehicle Registration Refunds (HB 305): Provides persons eligible for a 30 percent reduction in motor vehicle registration fees up to two years from the date of payment to apply for a refund.

DOT Easements (HB 1774): Authorizes the release of easements and restoration of access rights in various counties by the Department of Transportation.

other hand, take more from PACs than any other incumbent running for the Senate in 1990," she said.

A study released recently by Common Cause, a citizens' lobby, said the $749,802 Simon accepted from special-interest groups since he took office in January 1985 was the most of any of the 32 senators running for re-election next year.

"Personally, I see nothing wrong or immoral about accepting PAC money," Martin said. "There's nothing illegal about it. I intend to accept PAC contributions, just as I intend to accept $10 or $50 or even $1,000 contributions from individuals.

"No one is going to buy my vote by making a campaign contribution, nor do I think anyone could buy Paul Simon."

"But to say it is wrong to take the money, as he has done, and then do it anyway seems to be less than sincere."

"If the incumbent truly believes what he says about PACs, he should do what other critics of the contributions do: Refuse to accept their money."

To do less smacks of hypocrisy," Martin said that Simon, in a Feb. 6, 1988, national radio address recommended that taxpayers bear the cost of political campaigns. She alleged Simon said:

"One of the reasons our government too often panders to the whims and wishes of the rich and powerful, rather than to the needs of working men and women and the less fortunate, is the influence the special system of financing campaigns has on those who seek and hold office. It is subtle but powerful. Getting rid of political action committees would be a small step forward."

"The excuse — that he doesn't like to accept PAC contributions but he will because they're legal and everybody else accepts them — is a weak argument at best," Martin said.

Edgar chooses Kustra

Gubernatorial candidate Jim Edgar has named Sen. Bob Kustra, R-Park Ridge, as his choice for lieutenant governor.

Now secretary of state, Edgar is considered the leading candidate for governor in the 1990 Republican primary.

"Bob brings to our team an impressive blend of careers as a classroom teacher and as an effective, thoughtful legislator who has been consistently recognized as one of the best in the General Assembly."

"I will draw on his valuable experience — both in education and in the Assembly — as we move to assure that our schools in Illinois are second to none in this nation," Edgar said.

this nation," Edgar said.

Edgar and Kustra teamed up in 1988 to win General Assembly approval of legislation requiring motorists to carry liability insurance. Edgar championed the legislation and Kustra was the chief Senate sponsor as the mandatory auto insurance measure made it to the state's law books after decades of unsuccessful efforts.

Kustra, 46, holds a doctorate degree in political science from the University of Illinois and was named as one of the 10 outstanding legislators in a poll taken by the Chicago Sun-Times.

New BAC contract approved by faculty

By Rick Arnold
Staff writer

BELLEVILLE — With weeks negotiating behind them and a signed three-year contract secured, BAC administrators and faculty members are ready to get back to the task of education.

"The length of the contract will allow the college to get on with other matters at hand," said Leo Welch, the president of the local chapter of the American Association of University Professors and a member of the negotiating team.

The contract calls for pay increases of 6.8 percent the first year, 5.8 percent the second year, and 4.7 percent the third year for full-time faculty, said BAC President Joe Cipri.

The increases will cost the college $2.2 million over the next three years, he said.

The pay increases are the first for the faculty in three years. All faculty and staff members had voluntarily agreed to a wage freeze the past two years while the college was experiencing financial difficulties.

By a 6-to-1 margin, the BAC Board of Trustees approved the contract at a special meeting on Monday morning. Board member Ted Farmer voted against the contract.

The union had approved the contract by an 86-to-21 vote on Friday.

Negotiators reached an agreement on a contract on Aug. 18 after 17 negotiating sessions, Cipri said.

Veteran teachers will receive an annual 1.6 percent pay increase for years of service while the starting salary for a new faculty member was increased to $20,400 from the current level of $14,400, he said.

"One of the goals of the board when establishing its parameters for negotiations was improving salaries at the lower levels of the faculty and we feel like we attained that goal," Cipri said.

He said that along with the increase in a faculty member's starting salary came a decrease in summer class pay for all faculty members.

A benefits plan was also part of the contract.

In the first two years of the contract, the faculty and the college will split evenly any increase in the cost of medical benefits, while in the third year, the faculty will absorb 100 percent of any cost increase.

The college will also offer, for a limited time, an early retirement incentive.

"The benefit program was very important to us, we were glad we were able to attain that," Cipri said.

Representatives from both sides said they were pleased with not only the final result of the negotiations but also with the tone of the negotiations.

Wolford termed the contract "a good deal" for both sides.

But Farmer, also a member of the personnel committee but not on the negotiating team, said he felt the board made too many concessions to the faculty.

"Dr. Cipri and the board simply caved in to their (union's) demands," Farmer said. He said that with the pay increases the contract calls for, 70 percent of the faculty will earn more than $60,000 annually.

"It was a fantastic deal for the union but a lousy deal for the taxpayers, and they're the ones who are going to have to pick up the check," Farmer said.

Negotiations are continuing with other employee groups, including secretaries and custodians, Cipri said.

Briefly

Science teachers go back to school

The week of Aug. 7-11, James Harsh, Al Lobdell, Tom Pinnell, Dale Rice and Bruce Ullman, science teachers of the Granite City area, attended a unique summer science program for 25 selected teachers from southern Illinois.

The program, Sage Science Challenge '89, was funded by the Illinois Board of Higher Education. Faculty members of the science division of Greenville (Ill.) College conducted the program.

Teachers spent the week working through laboratory exercises useful in teaching science.

Many lab exercises were performed to help teachers anticipate and correct any problems students might have with the lab. Some new labs also were written by the participants.

New laws deal with education

Bills affecting schools were among the measures signed into law recently by Gov. James Thompson.

Community College Fund Distribution (SB 287): Revises the credit hour and equalization grant formulas for the 1990 distribution of funds for community colleges.

School Code Changes (HB 32): Increases the transportation tax rate for qualified elementary school districts; adjusts the equalized assessed valuation (for state aid formula purposes) of districts abating taxes.

School Building and Maintenance Tax (HB 565): Increases on an incremental basis the maximum authorized downstate operations, building and maintenance tax rate from 37.5 cents per $100 valuation to 50 cents.

'Let It Ride' wins big laughs due to Dreyfuss performance

Judging from the farcical goings-on in the goofy but enjoyable turf comedy "Let It Ride," the term "the odds" in racing has little to do with winning or losing.

It alludes to the lunatic fringe hanging around Richard Dreyfuss at Hialeah race track, the veteran loser who's never learned that when it comes to horse sense, the horses have most of it.

Most of Dreyfuss's colleagues, who refuse to work today fully expecting to pick a winning horse tomorrow, can barely afford a $5 wager.

But Dreyfuss, in a strong comedy performance, aspires to greater things—like membership in the exclusive jockey club where he can sit around with the big leaguers and sign tabs for big drinks and meals.

What we have here is a comedy about a compulsive gambler wise enough to know deep in his soul that wagering on horses is getting nothing for something, but a fellow so obsessed with betting "a sure thing" that he can't lose for winning.

Reviews

By Frank Hunter

And when Dreyfuss walks away early with a wad during a magical day at the track, and pals urge him to quit while he's ahead, he just lets his winnings pile up and the film is off to the race so to speak.

Standouts include Teri Garr as Dreyfuss' long-suffering wife, a woman who loves him and puts up with his destructive malady and manic carrying-on, and Robbie Coltrane delivering an amusingly acerbic performance as the cynical track ticket seller.

David Johansen plays Dreyfuss' zany cohort, a cabdriver who tapes the conversation of people he takes to the track.

Allen Garfield is an obnoxious nouveau riche high stakes bettor who treats his sexy girlfriend (Jennifer Tily) like a bauble purchased at Tiffany's, and Michelle Phillips is a socialite who would rather play footsy beneath the luncheon table with Trotter than bet on a horse.

Reggae music comes to Fox as younger Marley performs

Ziggy Marley and the Melody Makers will be in concert at 8 p.m. Sept. 6 at the Fox. The Neville Brothers will open the show. Tickets are $16.50 and $18.50 and will be on sale at Ticketmaster outlets, including the Fox box office, Famous-Barr and Dillard's.

Marley, 20, has a new album, "One Bright Day," which was released July 25 by Virgin Records. One of the record's producers, Chris Frantz, said the album takes reggae to the next phase. "One Bright Day" is more serious.

St. Louisans who attended this year's VP Fair might have caught the Neville Brothers' concert. They also are a talented group and their creole-flavored music will be a great complement to the reggae. "Yellow Moon" is the Neville Brothers' latest A&M release.

A reggae concert featuring Bunny Wailer was scheduled for April 21 at the Fox but was moved to Mississippi Nights due to low ticket sales. So far, there are few concerts to conflict with Marley's show. Perhaps this will be the first reggae success for Fox Concerts.

Other concerts coming to the Fox include the new rock band Love and Rockets, with guests, the Pixies at 8 p.m. Sept. 2. Tickets are $14.50 and $16.50. L&R's new hit single, "So Alive," can be heard on WKBF-FM (106.5).

RAUNCH HUMOR

Raunchy comedian Andrew Dice Clay will bring his brand of dark blue humor to the Fox at 8 p.m. Sept. 11. Tickets for the Dice Man—Ace Rose's favorite funny man—are $16.50 and $18.50 and go on sale Saturday.

A spokesman for the Fox said promotional material, including print ads, must include the warning "This concert will contain X-rated material intended for mature audiences." What a laugh. Usually immature lunkheads are the ones that go for dirty comics like Clay and Sam Kinison. Mature folks generally require a bit more for an evening's entertainment. But then again, this is America, land of choice. I'm choosing not to go.

FLYING K'S TO TOWN

Boy, you just can't catch these Flying Karamazov Brothers. Their concert for Oct. 6 at the Fox has been moved to Oct. 2 because the theater is negotiating for a band they want very much—Fine Young Cannibals.

If you have purchased Flying K tickets, they will be honored. Prices range from $6.90 to $18.90; show time is 8 p.m.

OTHER NOTABLES

As we announced last week, Stevie Nicks will be at The Mundy on Sept. 14. Contemporary announced concert information Tuesday: show time is 8 p.m. and tickets are $15.50, $17.50 and $19.50. They go on sale Saturday at Ticketmaster outlets, The Mundy box office in Forest Park, or through Dialbox, 434-6600.

WIZARD OF OZ

Fans of the movie, the Wizard of Oz soon will have a definitive soundtrack available. "The Wizard of Oz" record will be released by CBS Records. According to publicists, the original Tin Woodsman, Buddy Ebsen, will be included on the recording. His Jitterbug scene, which never was used in the final release of the film, will be on the record. Ebsen left the movie because he was allergic to the Tin Woodsman makeup.

Warriors hope to end victory drought

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

When the Warriors take the field in Cahokia tomorrow night, it will be 707 days since their last victory.

That's quite a drought. Ron Yates and an anxious group of football players will be looking to quench their thirst as Granite City opens the season against the Cahokia Comanches (5-4 last year) in a 7:30 p.m. game at Brien Field.

"We just have to get out and win a game somewhere," said Yates, who began his sixth season with a 17-28 record, including 14 losses in a row since a 15-7 overtime win over Collinsville on Sept. 25, 1987. "That's the first step. We have to prove we can win a football game before we can think about a 500 record."

For the fourth straight year, the Comanches will provide the first opposition. The Warriors got off on the right foot in 1986 and 1987, with their 10-0 win at Cahokia on Sept. 4, 1987, their last road victory.

But the Comanches ruined the season opener last year at Memorial Stadium by a 33-0 count on Sept. 2. The Warriors went on to an 8-9 season, with four games forfeited because of a teachers strike. The last four games were played including missing four weeks of practice, so Comanches (Rob Eden, 4th year, 10-17): Nehemia Sims (Sr., RB) 18 carries for 62 yards, 17 receptions for 220 yards, 2 TD; Mike Thomas (Sr., RB) 24 carries for 141 yards, 1 TD; Chris Woodard (Sr., WR) 20 receptions for 180 yards; Lance Taylor (Sr., DL) 31 tackles, 12 assists, 2 sacks, 1 fumble recovery; George Enge (Sr., DL) 22 tackles, 4 sacks, 1 fumble recovery.

Sacks are from 1988 season.

Yates feels the Cahokia game was the only true test of 1988 — and the Warriors failed miserably.

"We just weren't ready to play that night, and the strike (which began four days later) was on the players' minds," said Yates. "Cahokia's a good test for us always. They have some quick players who can be dangerous."

The most dangerous Comanche last year was running back Nehemia Sims. He's back for his senior year after collecting more than 1,100 yards rushing, receiving and returning in 1988. Sims got off to a big start in Granite City as he gained 123 yards on 16

Warriors bracing for tough Vianney

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

Although it will come down to how well the Warriors do against Illinois teams, their regular-season games against St. Louis' best are a good measuring stick.

Gene Baker's team will have a baptism of fire Saturday as Granite City travels to Vianney High School in Kirkwood, Mo., to face the Golden Griffins in the Warriors' season opener. Varsity action will begin at about 7:30 p.m. (JV at 5:30).

Vianney has a tradition to match the Warriors. Mike Villa begins his 18th season with a program which has won five Missouri state titles, the last one in 1987. The Griffins are the only team to win the Granite City Tournament of Champions more than once (1981 and 1987) and are annually among the best teams in the area.

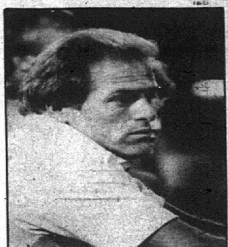

Vianney was 22-5-4 last year and a state quarterfinalist. They are ranked third in the St. Louis area in pre-season polls, but Villa lost 22 seniors, including all 11 starters from that team. He's a little worried about inexperience as the new year begins.

"This is about the biggest rebuilding year I've ever had here," he said. "We do have some seniors and some good young players. But there are only three people returning from my second year last year. So there's not too much varsity experience here."

The class of 1989 included Mike Tracey, who scored the winner in a 1-0 Vianney win at Granite City last Sept. 3. He's now at Wright State University along with ex-Warriors Todd Adamitis and Dave DeRousse, as well as McCluer North product Gene Baker Jr., the son of the Warrior coach.

"Gene helped a lot in getting Mike recruited to Wright State," said Villa. "That was a good group of seniors we had. Unfortunately for us, CBS had a little better group."

Despite Villa's concern, the Warriors will have their hands full Saturday. The Griffins open their season tonight against Rosary, so they will at least have one game under their belts. "Vianney is always loaded," said Baker. "They usually have more than 200 kids come out for soccer, so talent is never short." Baker said the Warriors are battling injuries to senior Danny Weathers (bruised hip) and junior Pat Rich (groin pull). In addition, they're still waiting to see if goaltender Ron O'Shea will be eligible. Other than that, they're ready for a very tough opener. In the past two seasons, they've opened with rather easy wins over Belleville. Although before playing Vianney.

Granite City lost at Vianney 2-1 in 1987 and 1-0 at home last year.

"I'll tell you after the game if it's better for us to open this way," Baker said. "It depends how we do. Mike's team will be a great test for us."

"Granite City is always very strong defensively," said Villa. "And I don't have anyone back who scored more than two goals. So getting opportunities could be difficult for us. We can always depend on a tight game against them. It usually isn't decided by more than one goal."

NOTES: To get to Vianney High School, take Interstate 44 out of downtown St. Louis and exit at Lindbergh. The field is right there. Next Tuesday, Friday home opener against Alton is in doubt as the Alton teachers went on strike Wednesday. Friday's freshman game with the Redskins is also imperiled.

Voloski's thumb injury sets Trojans back

By Mike Kelly
Correspondent

MADISON — The loss of a key ingredient could alter the foundation of a set game plan.

The Madison Trojans, looking to improve their 2-2 record from last year, have suffered a severe setback before the season's first play from scrimmage. Junior Greg Voloski, a two-way player, was injured during one of the biggest plays (6-1, 25 pounds) on the team, went down with a break injury in practice a couple of days ago.

Voloski chipped a bone in his thumb during a non-contact drill. Although that doesn't sound severe, it will require surgery and keep him out of the lineup six weeks, including Friday's season opener at Sam

Trojans (Sam Smith, 4th year, 31-30): Tony Freebody (Jr., RB) 88 carries for 366 yards, 3 TD, 27 tackles, 20 assists, 4 fumble recoveries; Federico Walker (Jr., QB) 205 carries for 44 yards, 20 tackles, 19 assists, 2 sacks; Demetrius Cason (Jr., DT) 75 sacks, 18 assists, 2 sacks.

Sacks are from 1988 season.

Dymal Memorial Field against Waterloo at 7:30 p.m.

Voloski's absence on the right side of the offensive line will create quite a void. Instead of versatility in the ground game, with an inside attack powered by Voloski and guard Demarco Cason, the Trojans must now rely on their outside quickness.

"We'll try to adjust without Greg in the lineup," said Madison coach Don Smith. "But it won't be an easy thing to do. The guys we're looking at to fill the spot on the right side of the line are juniors Brian Campbell and Chris Seldin. But while they have the physical talent, they lack Voloski's experience."

"I've seen Waterloo's roster and they've got some big people. So running the ball inside won't be a piece, especially with Greg not being there. Our only hope is to control the ball while getting outside and creating the big play offensively."

Size was a factor last year (a 27-0 Waterloo victory) as the Trojans were manhandled on the line of scrimmage. With virtually no attack inside, Madison's outside speed was easily contained by the Bulldogs.

"We were able to bottle them up last year," said Waterloo coach Sid Allen, who was 4-5 last year after an 8-9 rookie year in 1987. "But you just never know about Madison. They have such great athletic talent that one mistake against them could cost you the game."

The Bulldogs, looking for their first playoff appearance in school history, return an experi-

Coaches assistants

Bunting and Ames big parts of Warrior soccer tradition

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY — Behind every good man stands a good woman. Behind every good head coach stand great assistants.

Perhaps the two assistant coaches in this area are associated with the head man as much as Mel Bunting and Dave Ames are with Gene Baker. There are many reasons for the phenomenal success of the Warrior soccer program, but Baker, Bunting and Ames are the constants.

And while Baker has deservedly received the lion's share of the credit, Bunting and Ames must have been doing something right at these places.

"Continuity is very important in any sports organization," said Baker. "It's something you don't see at other schools. Mel and Dave have been with me for a long time and I have full confidence in both of them."

"A lot of kids have come and gone through this program, and they've all been great and all have contributed to the winning," said Bunting, who has been Baker's assistant since the head coach's arrival in 1973.

"But the one constant through all of it has been Gene. And I feel very proud of what Gene and I have accomplished."

"Continuity is a big help," said Ames, who was at Granite City North for the entire existence of that school before joining Baker and Bunting when the district re-emerged into one high school in 1983. "The players know what to expect when they get here."

Bunting, an East Alton native, started in the school district in 1969. He played football at East-Alton, Illinois, then became involved in a little in soccer while in the military. As the junior varsity coach, he was named MVP of a 162-21-21 record. He is married and the father of three.

Ames, a native of Galena, Ill., arrived in Granite City in 1969 and was an assistant to John Sellmeyer in 1972 when the Warriors won their first state title. He went to North the next year as an assistant to Bob Kehoe. Now the head coach, he has rolled up a 158-24-24 record. Ames is also married and has three children. He and his wife, Pam, celebrate their 21st anniversary today.

Both have many years of experience in the track program as well.

"We were hired together and we've always been very good friends," Bunting said.

"That was never a problem," Ames said. "A lot of people think North might have been the second best team in the state a lot of years, but we couldn't get past South (the Steelers made it to state once in 1974). That might have been true, but it's really just speculation."

When North closed in 1983, Ames made no secret of the fact that he wanted to remain in soccer.

"They had decided on hiring a second assistant, but I don't know that anything was guaranteed," said Ames. "I made it clear I didn't want to leave. I wanted to stay with it and was happy to get the soccer job."

"I told Gene I had a little background in the game when he arrived," Bunting said. "I knew quite a few of the kids from track. I also knew about the soccer tradition that was building here. The rest, I guess, is history."

"I played intramural soccer in college at Illinois State," Ames said. "But I had not been introduced to the sport until then. So I got a lot of on-the-job training here. Kehoe was very knowledgeable and a lot like Gene. I learned a lot from Bob and a lot more from Gene."

Ames and Bunting each actually have two coaching jobs during the soccer season. They coach their own underclassman teams as well as assisting Baker with the varsity.

"We've downplayed the JV and freshman programs here for a reason," Bunting said. "We're here to teach them a system and to prepare them for varsity play."

"But winning is very important at our level. You can get used to winning and losing. Our job is to prepare kids to compete at the varsity level, and winning helps add to their expectations as seniors."

"And we appreciate that Gene lets us help out with the varsity," Ames said.

"Gene always welcomes our suggestions," Bunting said. "He ultimately has the final decision, of course. But we enjoy seeing the younger kids we've had move up and be successful. There are a few juniors this year who are a step away physically or positionally from being ready. The question is are they better sitting on the bench with the varsity of playing for us? They're better playing."

In a program which routinely draws close to 100 kids at the start of each year, a head coach appreciates assistants he can

"Mel and Dave serve as buffers," said Baker. "And they see a lot I don't see. Dave's a lover of the game. He enjoys playing it and teaching it. Mel is a strong coach who understands athletics. He knows what it means for a player to give an honest and complete effort."

"Mel is very good at reading the value and merit of players on both sides. He scouts for me when called upon, although I do most of that now."

Bunting hesitates to name a favorite player of his who went on to bigger things at the varsity level for a good reason.

"If I named one or two, I would miss about 15," he said. "There have just been so many good ones. And what we're proudest about is those who go on to be productive adults with good families."

"But I guess a guy like Barry Briggs is one I'm proud of. He had never been a goalie when I put him back there. We were a little thin in goal and he was a great athlete. Barry went on to be the goalie for our state champions in 1976 and 1977."

They've been at Baker's side for so long that it seems inevitable one of the two will take over the Warrior reins if and when Baker leaves. But don't count on it.

"Boy, those would be tough shoes to fill," said Ames. "It would be a no-win situation. If you win it's because you're supposed to and if you lose you really look bad. It would be something I would have to give some deep thought to."

"I have no intention of taking over this program," said Bunting. "It just couldn't be a winning situation."

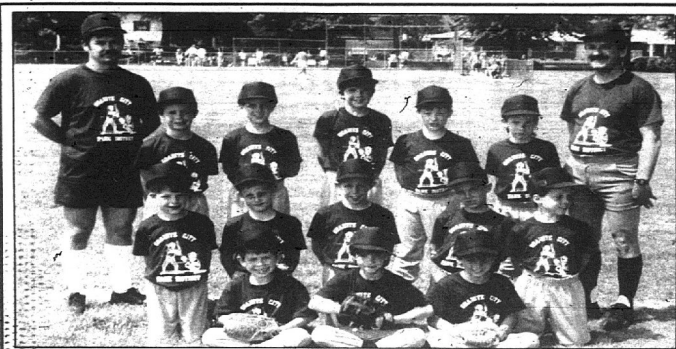

It would be something like the situation which faced Phil Bengtson, the poor guy who had to take over for Vince Lombardi in Green Bay. And while Bunting and Ames aren't anxious to take over the top spot in Granite City, they also haven't been anxious to leave for head coaching jobs elsewhere.

"There have been three different schools approach me about a job," said Bunting. "But I've never really seriously considered it. I enjoy it here, and I enjoy being in the classroom. Coaching is secondary to that."

"This is a pretty good deal here," said Ames, who is the head coach of the girls program at O'Fallon. "This is a good situation. If it isn't broken, don't fix it."

"I think we've been pretty lucky at through the years," said Bunting. "Gene Baker is an easy man to be loyal to."

Baker thinks 1989 schedule is best ever

By Dave Whaley
Executive sports editor

GRANITE CITY—The final exams came in late October and early November. But for the Warrior soccer team, some of the quizzes and midterms will be more difficult.

Gene Baker begins his 17th season in Granite City with a 387-31-53 career record (317-40-32 here), and he thinks this might be the most challenging schedule ever.

"By Sept. 15, we should know exactly what we have to do to be a quality team," he said. "Adding CBC to the schedule really rounds it out. There are a lot of improved teams in the metro east, plus we feel we're playing four of the best St. Louis schools."

In addition, the Warriors will play in the New Trier Tournament on Sept. 8-9. Granite City opens with a 7 p.m. game Friday against New Trier, always one of the premier teams in Chicago. The Warriors come right back at 10 a.m. Saturday against Maine South, the team Granite City beat on Herb Heaton's sudden-death goal to win the 1987 state championship game. At 5 p.m. Saturday, the opponent is Buffalo Grove, the defending state champions and the team which bumped the Warriors out in last year's state semifinals.

"It's one heck of a schedule,"

Baker said. "We open on the road against Vianey, which won the Missouri state tournament in 1987 and was very strong again last year. Playing them on the road is a tremendous challenge. Then we come right back and open at home against Alton, and I guarantee they will be much improved. Then we go to Collinsville. I wish Ron Rowden were there. After the trip to Chicago, we come back for Belleville East, always a tough Southwestern Conference opponent, before CBC comes in (Sept. 14)."

But outside of CBC (26-2-2 last year as state champions and ranked No. 1 in 1989 pre-season polls), the Warriors have to travel to St. Louis three times for tough road games at Vianey (22-5-4, No. 3), McCluer North (19-5-2, No. 8) and St. Louis U. High (19-5-4, No. 4). Add in the New Trier Tournament and it's easy to see many of the tough games will be away from the Granite City will also travel to Quincy on Sept. 16.

"We've got all that plus our tournament (Oct. 2-7), which is the best," Baker said. "We've added Smith-Cotton out of Sedalia (Mo.) this year. They have been a frequent finalist in the Missouri state tournament, so that upgrades the tournament field even more."

Considering all that, the post-season might seem like a walk in the park.

1979 SIUE national champs planning reunion

Sports Of All Sorts

By Al Barnes

Assistant coach Rick Benben came up with the idea. It was a simple plan that could very well have backfired on the Cougars, but didn't. Benben's plan took advantage of the bravado and almost overbearing overconfidence of Clemson, a team made up mostly of foreign-born players. Rick convinced Guelker to permit his midfielders and defenders to pick up the Tigers before they reached midfield.

The play worked to perfection. You could see the sheer anger on the Tiger players' faces. How dare these boys from Illinois cast all defensive rules aside and defy the rules of the game?

The daring plan worked as the Cougars stole the ball and fed it quickly to Malloy, who scored his first goal five minutes into the match. The same thing happened with 10 minutes left in the first half and the SIUE players took 2-0 advantage in the locker room, with Clemson's players madder than the devil.

Guelker suddenly decided to change his game plan at halftime. He had a two-goal lead and he wanted to protect it. With six minutes left, Clemson tied the game 2-2 and it looked like the upset was going down the drain.

At that point, Ebert faked an injury resulting in a timeout by the Cougars, who went back to their original plan. In the last five minutes, they denied the Tigers a single shot and Malloy, on an assist from Tim Guelker, the coach's son—headed in the winning goal.

I'm looking forward to seeing Bob Bozada, Mike twellman, Pat Malloy, little Jeff Cacciatore, Tim Clark, Dave Hundelt, Dave Hummert, Tom Groat, Terry Trushel, Steve Shell and Stuart Stevenson. I only hope I haven't forgotten to mention too many of the champions.

That season started off with a six-game western swing. With coach Guelker hardly recovered from triple bypass surgery, he had to be wheeled onto the plane as it left Lambert Field and headed for Los Angeles, where SIUE beat UCLA 2-1. The Cougars were virtually unbeatable the rest of the year, getting ties with Evansville (2-2), UMSL (1-1) and SMU (1-1). Believe it or not, the Cougars were actually dropped from the nation's top 20 early in the season.

In the march through the NCAA tournament, the Cougars beat St. Louis U., 2-1, topped SMU 2-0 and avenged an earlier loss to San Francisco by a 4-2 score to reach the final four in Tampa.

They beat Penn State 2-1 in the semifinals to set up the showdown with Clemson. My most moving moment on the trip to Tampa came after the title game. Less than 10 minutes after the plane was airborne, Ebert stood up and made a motion that the team vote me a member and that I be awarded a championship ring, which I still wear proudly.

NOTES: George Steinbrenner's latest managerial shakeup in New York was good news for one of our local favorites, John "Champ" Summers. The Madison High School and SIUE product was promoted to the Yankee pinstripes as the batting coach for new field manager Bucky Dent when Dallas Green was fired last week.

Summers had been a coach for Dent at the Yankees' Triple A affiliate in Columbus, Ohio. I had heard a couple weeks ago that Steinbrenner was ready to make a move and that Champ would be moving up again to the big leagues after a long and successful playing career.

Netters win opener at Triad

ST. JACOB—The Warrior tennis team got the fall season off on the right foot with a 6-1 win over Triad on Tuesday.

"It wasn't a real tough test for us, but at least we played well," said coach Allen Lobdell. "We're looking forward to Edwardsville on Friday at home (4 p.m.), which should be a much tougher match."

The Warriors won all four singles matches, with No. 1 player Keri Weckman starting her senior year in strong fashion with a 10-3 win over Andrea Deloney. Sophomore Melissa Croak followed with a 10-1 win over Tracy Hunter. Theresa Isom beat Triad's Laura Gire 10-7 before Amy Isom finished up the singles with a 10-1 win over Kristi Wilson.

Nikhilrout and Kristi Holsinger won their doubles match 10-0, as did Addie Lenzi and Holly Taylor. Kerin Dippel and Cathy Sanderling suffered Granite City's only loss of the match, dropping a 10-7 decision to Deloney and Hunter, the Knights' top two singles players.

carries. The Comanches gained 323 yards on the ground that night.

"Nehemiah is our big-play runner in the backfield, but (Mario) Lockett and (Demetrio) Spragins will help take some of the load off him when we run the ball," said fourth-year Comanche coach Rob Eden.

Eden was 1-8 his first year in 1986, but has built the Comanches into a .500 team. Cahokia returns 14 letterwinners, including nine two-way starters. Linebacker George Page spearheads the defensive line, with Lance Taylor, Sims and Cornelius Johnson leading a strong secondary.

Quarterback Larry Wynn also has graduated and went to Northern Illinois University. Junior Hurlie Cozart has the inside track at the starting position, with speedy seniors Darion Franklin and Alvin Doss the main receivers.

The Warriors are fairly healthy. Center Larry Hahne should be able to play in the Quincy game next week, although he's out for the opener with a knee injury.

"That's about the only injury right now," Yates said. "We still have some more tough practices to run, but we're in pretty good shape. It will all come down to how our senior offensive line performs. That's the whole key to this team."

enced crew. With seven seniors manning the skill positions, Allen believes his team can compete with some of the best teams in the area.

"Confidence is our biggest asset this year," said Allen. "Many of these kids have paid their dues playing as sophomores trying to resurrect the program. If we play up to our capabilities and get some breaks along the way, this could be a profitable season for us."

Waterloo is led by quarterback Eric Maurer (6-2, 180), a drop-back passer who threw for 380 yards last season. The running game will be fueled by fullback Rich Groves (5-11, 200, and 600 yards rushing) and tailback Denry Davis (6-1, 190, and 500 yards rushing in just five games), who had a big game against the Trojans last year. Davis had some ankle problems in 1988, but he's healthy and ready to go Friday.

"We definitely have the talent to put some points on the board," said Allen. "And the experience we've gained the last two years will help us play better on the road. Madison will be a good test because it'll give us an idea of just how good we are."

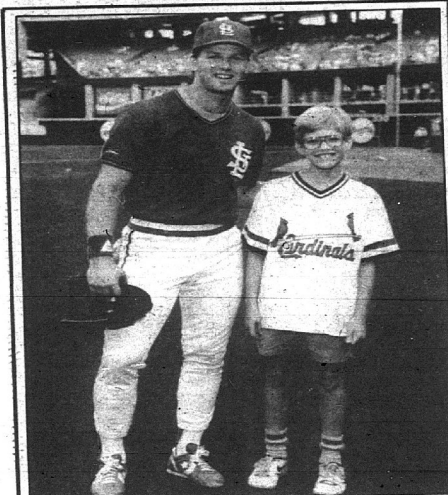

The Trojans have a few weapons of their own offensively. Junior Federico Walker will handle the quarterback duties, while a pair of juniors, Tony Treadway and Paris Johnson, will back up the running game.

"Federico has really come into his own this season," said Smith. "He's more confident about himself and he's shown the ability to handle such a responsible position. Also, having a pair of running backs like Treadway and Johnson, with their game-breaking speed, has placed him in a take-charge situation."

"But this will be a real test for us. The impressive thing is the kids have shown a positive attitude, despite the injury to Voloski. They're hungry to play, especially the defense. Those kids are aggressive and can't wait to hit somebody."

"The odds are definitely not in our favor, though. We have a lot of factors to overcome. But if we can create some breaks, hold onto the ball and disrupt their game plan a little, then I feel our athletic ability could end up taking control of the game."
